The Law Commission was asked to examine the criminal jurisdiction of the High Court over the Crown Court, and the focus on this report is on the two means by which decisions of the way of case stated and judicial review from the Crown Court Crown Court can be challenged: by appeal to the High Court by way of case stated, and by application to the High Court for judicial review. This report follows on from a consultation paper issued in 2007 (no 184, ISBN 9780118404440) and the responses to it. The Commission recommends: abolishing appeal by case stated from the Crown Court to the High Court in criminal proceedings; reforming the law on judicial review of the Crown Court in criminal proceedings so that judicial review of decisions in a trial on indictment is barred from the time the case goes to the Crown Court for trial to the end of the trial, with an exception where the judge refuses bail; a new statutory appeal for a child or young person, where the trial judge refuses to restrict reporting to protect his or her identity; and a new statutory appeal where the trial judge's ruling entails a real and immediate risk to a person's life.

The Model Rules of Professional Conduct provides an up-to-date resource for information on legal ethics. Federal, state and local courts in all jurisdictions look to the Rules for guidance in solving lawyer malpractice cases, disciplinary actions, disqualification issues, sanctions questions and much more. In this volume, black-letter Rules of Professional Conduct are followed by numbered Comments that explain each Rule's purpose and provide suggestions for its practical application. The Rules will help you identify proper conduct in a variety of given situations, review those instances where discretionary action is possible, and define the nature of the relationship between you and your clients, colleagues and the courts.

In this Advanced Introduction, Christopher Slobogin covers every significant aspect of U.S. criminal procedure. Focusing on Supreme Court cases and the most important statutory rules that provide the framework for the criminal justice system, he illuminates the nuances of American criminal procedure doctrine and offers factual examples of how it is applied. Chapters cover police practices such as search and seizure, interrogation, and identification procedures, as well as the pretrial, trial and post-conviction process.

General Introduction and Proceedings in Courts of Petty Sessions Stationery Office Books (TSO)

Anyone practising in the criminal court needs to have a sound grasp of both evidence and procedure. This book provides the criminal lawyer with access to the key points of these inter-related subjects in a single volume. It is divided into two parts: Part A deals with evidence, while Part B covers procedure. It provides the text of the most important statutory provisions, together with a concise commentary. The procedural and evidential provisions of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 are placed in context, and there are extensive excerpts from the revised 1995 version of the codes of practice issued under PACE. The Criminal Appeal Act 1995 is also dealt with in full.

This book aims to honour the work of Professor Mirjan Damaška, Sterling Professor of Law at Yale Law School and a prominent authority for many years in the fields of comparative law, procedural law, evidence, international criminal law and Continental legal history. Professor Damaška 's work is renowned for providing new frameworks for understanding different legal traditions. To celebrate the depth and richness of his work and discuss its implications for the future, the editors have brought together an impressive range of leading scholars from different jurisdictions in the fields of comparative and international law, evidence and criminal law and procedure. Using Professor Damaška's work as a backdrop, the essays make a substantial contribution to the development of comparative law, procedure and evidence. After an introduction by the editors and a tribute by Harold Koh, Dean of Yale Law School, the book is divided into four parts. The first part considers contemporary trends in national criminal procedure, examining cross-fertilisation and the extent to which these trends are resulting in converging practices across national jurisdictions. The second part explores the epistemological environment of rules of evidence and procedure. The third part analyses human rights standards and the phenomenon of hybridisation in transnational and international criminal law. The final part of the book assesses Professor Damaška's contribution to comparative law and the challenges faced by comparative law in the twenty first century.
